Dear colleagues,

We are very pleased to invite you on behalf of the Society for Animal Laboratory Science and the local Organizing Committee, to the 61st Annual Meeting of the Society for Animal Laboratory Science to be held in Würzburg from September 11th to 13th, 2024.

For more than 600 years the City of Würzburg is home of the Julius-Maximilians-Universität, one of the oldest universities in Bavaria. The JMU offers manifold faculties, with a key focus on human medicine research. In recent years, the Würzburg Initiative 3R (WI3R) has led to significant developments for preclinical research in this area. Technologies such as "organoids", biofabrication or in vitro tissue models show how animal experiments and 3R models go hand in hand.

Another Würzburg feature are its baroque and rococo style buildings such as the Residenz (World Heritage Site), Marienburg fortress, and countless vine taverns and cellars invite to look, browse, and enjoy.

The continuously increasing number of attendees at the meetings of the GV and IGTP shows today's importance of laboratory animal sciences. The implementation of animal welfare and the improvement of the housing conditions of laboratory animals is an important goal for researchers, animal facility managers, and caretakers. A continuous exchange enables us to achieve and enhance positive development.

The Congress Centrum is located in the center of Würzburg and is exclusively reserved for our meeting. In the foyer and next to the main auditorium roundabout 1.500 m<sup>2</sup> are available for the exhibition. This is where our partners from the industry will present their products, well-known and brand-new. Two more lecture rooms are located on the first floor, as well as multiple smaller rooms, which are set to be used for workshops.

The assigned organizer in 2024, is the Intercom Dresden GmbH, which will take care of your questions and wishes in a familiar professional way. In addition, we, the local committee, will be happy to answer your questions and are open to any input.

We are looking forward to welcoming you in September 2024 at the first live GV meeting in Würzburg.

Workshops, round-table discussions, lectures and posters

The lively city of Würzburg, gateway to the Romantic Road, is dominated by its most prominent landmark, the Fortress Marienberg. The origins of this fortress date back to around 1.000 b. C. when a celtic fortified refuge existed on this site. Since the foundation of the Würzburg bishopric in 742, Würzburg has been the religious centre of the region. Würzburg experienced its most prosperous period during the rule of the art-loving prince-bishops of the Schönborn family, for whom Balthasar Neumann built the "palace of palaces", the Würzburg Residence, from 1719 to 1744. The Venetian artist Tiepolo painted the vast fresco on the ceiling above the famous staircase, thereby creating the largest painting in the world. In 1981, on account of its outstanding architectural significance, the Residence was placed on the UNESCO list of cultural treasures of the world. Further sights of Würzburg are the St. Kilian's Cathedral and the adjacent Neumünster church with the romantic Lusam Garden, where the tombstone of the minstrel Walther von der Vogelweide is to be found. Also, not to be missed are the late gothic Marienkapelle (Chapel of St Mary) overlooking the market square and the Museum für Franken with its outstanding collection of works by sculptor Tilman Riemenschneider.

Other fine museums include the Museum am Dom, whose permanent exhibit centers on works of modern art by artists such as Joseph Beuys, Otto Dix, Ben Wilkens, and Käthe Kollwitz in combination with works of historical artists. A restored, historical grain storage building has recently been transformed into the award-winning Museum am Kulturspeicher which now displays various art collections, most notably a spectacular collection of European Concrete Art after 1945, featuring works by Max Bill and Victor Vasarely.
